

Johannes Mattes - a researcher based at the Austrian Academy of Sciences in Vienna. His areas of interest include the history of natural sciences in a cultural context (Earth sciences, speleology, geography, cartography, prehistory, nuclear medicine), scientific societies & academies, and the relationship between politics, research and the public.